

Study at the UIB

The Degree in Pedagogy trains students as experts in educational and training processes in school, social education, organisational and employment contexts. Students learn how to design, manage, develop and assess training and education plans, projects, programmes and activities. They are also trained to perform educational interventions across all areas, as well as training interventions at organisations and businesses. They also acquire the ability to understand, speak and write in English.

Elective subjects

WHAT WILL YOU LEARN?

Students will learn how to design, run, carry out, and assess educational plans, projects, and actions. They will also be prepared to carry out response to interventions in all areas, as well as formative interventions in the organisational and occupational context.

QUALITY ASSURANCE COMMISSION

The Quality Assurance Committee (CGQ) gathers all of the information regarding the degree programme (survey reports, data, statistics, complaints, suggestions, etc.) and analyses them.

WHAT WILL YOU BE ABLE TO DO ONCE YOU FINISH?

The professional pathways are varied and cover such diverse fields as education (both in school and beyond) and training (in the business or organisation world in general). Some professional pathways include: trainer at educational centres, on education and psychopedagogy counselling teams (EOEP) and on early support teams (EAP), lecturer in psychopedagogy topics in different professional training cycles, educational manager at institutions, director or assistant in human resources and training at organisations and businesses, careers advisor and trainer, as well as director or manager at training or social education centres.

HIGH-QUALITY OFFICIAL STUDY

Legislation requires that official Spanish Degrees receive positive evaluations by the National Agency for Quality Assessment and Accreditation (ANECA). This process is called verification, and it serves to ensure that the development programme in which you will participate will provide the skills and learning results that it is supposed to. Bachelor's programmes are subject to assessment and are continuously improved upon in order to guarantee their prestige and recognition within Europe.

TRAVEL AND LEARN

The UIB offers students the chance to take part in different exchange and mobility programmes:

- ➔ Exchange and mobility programmes: to complete part of your studies at another university in Spain, the European Union, and around the world, or to get work experience at businesses in the European Union, managed by the International Relations Service.
- ➔ Volunteer work experience and projects with university development cooperation programmes in least developed countries, run through the development cooperation programmes managed by the Cooperation for Development and Solidarity Office.
