Contextualisation

Context

Management of organizations relies on two fundamental pillars: First, the definition of firm's strategy, second, the efficient and effective organization management for fulfilling strategic goals. Organizational Design and Human Capital focuses on the second pillar, and particularly on firms' internal organization and personnel management.

One of the main challenges of entrepreneurs, managers and any other agent running a firm is to establish the rules and coordination mechanisms that make the decision-making process more efficient. Most of these rules and mechanisms are embedded in the organization's design. Therefore, building the organizational architecture that better supports the organization's strategy is a key aspect of the managerial function. On the other hand, firms, and particularly service providers such as Tourism Industry, require an efficient and effective way to recruit, develop and compensate human capital, so as it is the basis on which they operate. The Organizational Design and Human Capital course is aimed to provide the students with the knowledge, tools and abilities to develop the necessary competencies to make organizational decisions; and to design, implement and evaluate personnel management policies.

To develop the full potential of the students, the course combines theoretical concepts derived from Economics and Organization Theory, and seminars and applied methodologies to analyze particular case studies and stylized situations equivalent to the real world problems in Tourism Industry.

Specific risks and protective measures

The learning activities of this course do not entail specific health or safety risks for the students and therefore no special protective measures are needed.

Student learning assessment

We follow diverse techniques to appraise students' proficiency on the relevant competencies. To learn whether the item is retrievable or not, evaluation criteria and weight in overall grades, please refer to the table below.

Students will obtain a global grade within 0 and 10. The student will earn the credits of the course if she or he gathers at least 5 out of 10 in the weighted average of duties and tasks. Some of these tasks may require obtaining a minimum mark to succeed.

Important: None of the activities and duties are retrievable in ordinary or extraordinary dates. Student will receive a score of 0 (Zero) if she or he does not performs these activities, with the sole exceptions of:

- 1) Accident.
- 2) Hospitalization.
- 3) The birth or adoption of a child.
- 4) The death of a family member up to second degree of consanguinity or first degree of affinity. In both cases, the situation must coincide with the date of the activity, thus making impossible its realization.
- 5) Circumstances derived from UIBactivities:

Academic year	2016-17
Subject	20505 - Organisational Design and Human Resources
Group	Group 22, 1S, GTUR
Teaching guide	D
Language	English

- a) Official mobility programs.
- b) Participation in high-performance sports activities.
- c) Involvement in cultural activities on behalf of UIB.

In the event of these circumstances, and whenever they are appropriately justified, a student might not perform the task on the dates scheduled. In such case, the professor either will propose an alternative due date or to skip the activity in the final grade by rebalancing the relative weight of other activities.
